Reverse Hyper

SKU: ONEUP-3306

t is an effective tool for physical therapy, back rehab exercises, and regular everyday training—particularly for those looking to reduce back tightness and strengthen the hamstrings, glutes, and hips.

- Massive construction with a wide base ensures the high stability of the product. Even if you do fast swing the Reverse Hyper will not move.
- The anti-slip pads increase the stability and keep the Reverse Hyper in the right place. You can use high weights without worrying about the stability of the machine.
- Everybody can train on our Reverse Hyper because you can set up a distance of the rest. A shorter distance between legs and arms means a bigger load for your lower back. A longer distance between legs and arms means a bigger load on your butt and hamstrings.
- With side holders, you can train each leg. You can stand on the side holder and keep one leg to rest. The result will be to get rid of muscle imbalances and harmonic strengthening.
- Thanks to rubberizing the grips are not slippery and the grip is strong. Your hands will not slip down and you lift more weight.
- Suitable for older people
- Custom color options available
- Wide and comfortable commercial upholstery.
- For strengthening the lower body and back muscles
- For extreme muscle hypertrophy of the back muscles without overloading the spine
- Rise performance in strength exercises such as deadlifts, squats, cleans, snatch, etc. For professional athletes and athletes
- The whole construction is made of steel squares tubes. We use extremely strong steel with a long lifetime, so our machine is practically indestructible.
- Only regular increasing of height and change of training protocol will bring a result. On the holders, you can put standard Olympic plates.
